WELCOME

St Andrews, God's gift to golf, and the Jahangir, our gift to you, may, at first, seem an unlikely partnership. But first appearances are certainly deceptive in this case. We may not be able to match the Auld Grey Toon's unique atmosphere or it's hallowed tradition but yet, we share much in common.

For starters, a commitment to excellence and first class service. And in our delicious food - as with the golf quality, variety and character. St Andrews and the Jahangir - a winning team in every respect!

We offer a good selection of Pakistani, Punjabi, Bangladesh and North Indian Tandoori dishes. Every dish prepared has its own distinctive flavour and aroma which does not come from any curry powder but from spices which have to be prepared daily for each individual dish.

We request any complaints should be brought to our immediate attention.

Many famous celebrities have dined in Jahangir over the years, namely ...

*Gary Lineker, Lee Westwood, Andrew Neil, Kevin Keegan, Sandy Lyle, Steve Rider
Hazel Irvine, Luke Donald, Matthew Pinsent, Steve Redgrave, Alan Brazil, Iain Poulter, Adam Scott, Geoff Ogilvy, Paul McGinley, Ken Doherty, Stephen Hendry,
Darren Clarke, Vijay Singh, Hunter Mahan, Graham Mcdowell, Walter Smith, Tom Lehman, Jonathan Edward, Alan Hansen ... and many more.*

In the year 1558, a young Prince was born to King Akbar, ruler of the Mogul Empire and a direct descendant of the great Jenghis Khan..... he was called Jahangir.

Legend tells that although married to the strong-minded Noor Jahan, he became involved in a star-crossed romance with a dancing girl called Anarkali. Such was the Kings displeasure that he had her sentenced to death, but her mother, who had been a midwife at the birth of Jahangir, pleaded successfully for her life. Sentenced was altered to exile.

Jahangir's rule had a great impact on the destiny of his country, he signed a treaty with England in 1605 and this, in turn, led to the dominance of the East India Company throughout India.

Jahangir was succeeded in 1627 by his son Shah Jahan, he created the most romantic symbol of India to the world, in the memory of his loving wife,

Mumtaz... The Taj Mahal.
